AND THEIR COLLEAGUES

whose untiring advocacy insured that such service would be remembered for all time:

Senator William L. Armstrong
Representative Mary Rose Oakar
Governor Jim Florio
On July 27, 1953, a military armistice ended three years of vicious combat on the war-torn Korean peninsula. The cost in human and material treasure had been enormous—but Communist aggression had been halted, the territorial integrity of the Republic of Korea restored, the rights of 40 million people preserved and Northeast Asia stabilized. All this had been made possible by a multi-national command, marshalled under the United Nations banner, to which the Republic of Korea and the United States contributed the major forces and suffered the major losses.

In 1986, Congress provided the long sought authorization to express our Nation's enduring gratitude to the American service men and women whose fortitude and suffering had been all but forgotten. Signed into law by President Reagan, the legislation called for establishment of a Memorial to honor members of the United States Armed Forces who served in the Korean War, particularly those who were killed in action, still listed as missing in action or were held as prisoners of war.

The winning design, chosen from among 543 submissions, was developed by the team of Veronica Burns-Lucas, John Lucas, Don Leon and Eliza Pennypacker Oberholtzer from State College, Pennsylvania. It was unveiled by President Bush in a Rose Garden ceremony on Flag Day 1989. His eloquent words reflect the Nation's pride and gratitude for the heroes of the Korean War, "America could not be the land of the free, were it not the home of the brave."

Powerful in concept, the design radiates a message that is at once inspirational in content and timeless in meaning. The main feature is a column of 38 larger-than-life statues representing a combat formation of Army, Marine Corps, Navy and Air Force elements going forward on an undefined mission. Muralled walls will tell the story of the Korean War, pay special tribute to the fallen and recognize the contributions of other participating nations.

With the preliminary approval of the cognizant Federal Commissions in hand, the architectural firm of Cooper-Lecky has been engaged to provide architectural-engineering design and the sculptor selection process is in train.

The estimated cost is $10.5 million, all of which must be in hand by October, 1991—the five year limitation imposed by the Commemorative Works Act. To date, $5.5 million, representing over 100,000 contributions, has been deposited in an escrow account secured by the Government and reserved exclusively for construction costs. Promotion is thus heavily dependent on pro-bono/in-kind support.

Dedication of the Memorial on or before the 40th Anniversary of the Armistice will conclude the final campaign of the geo-political victory that was the Korean War.

BENEDICTION
Whether Rosemary Clooney sings alone or in concert, the quality of her performances reveals an artist who is at the peak of her creative powers. The distinctive, smooth sound, which garnered Clooney awards and gold records in earlier years, is today strengthened by her triumphant victory over past personal trauma and a return to her real joy in singing and making music.

Over the years, Clooney has earned tremendous affection and respect internationally. The success of her recent album “Rosemary Clooney Sings the Music of Rodgers, Hart and Hammerstein” and an overwhelming response to recent appearances across the nation, confirm her timeless appeal. As Frank Sinatra put it, “Rosemary Clooney has that great talent which exudes warmth and feeling in every song she sings. She is a symbol of good, modern American music.”

A cause close to Rosemary’s heart is the Betty Clooney Foundation for Persons with Brain Injury, named after her sister who died of a brain aneurism in 1976. This year marks the “Fifth Annual Singer’s Salute to the Songwriter,” a gala concert held to benefit the Foundation and the Betty Clooney Center of Long Beach, California. A unique post-rehabilitation facility, the Betty Clooney Center offers affordable community-based vocational and recreational services for survivors of brain injury.

Hailed as the only performer who has triumphed in all of the five major entertainment media: vaudeville, stage, radio, motion picture and television, Bob Hope occupies a unique niche in American life and an extraordinary status among comedians. He is as much a symbol of American patriotism as Yankee Doodle, and is recognized internationally as a tireless humanitarian devoted to the complex art of “lifting the American spirit.”

Since 1941 Hope has travelled more than a million miles to entertain more than ten million military troops. He has appeared at almost every American military base in the world, including eight trips to Korea, and has received more than a thousand awards and citations for his humanitarian and professional efforts.

Hope has entertained and been honored by ten presidents, has been made Honorary Commander of the British Empire by order of Queen Elizabeth, and is one of only three Americans to receive France’s highest award. Hope has contributed zealous doses of his time and talent to charities throughout the world, and was tirelessly recognized by President Kennedy as “America’s most prized ambassador of goodwill throughout the world.”

\(\text{WITH DEEP GRATITUDE...}\)

Trusted and beloved friend and counselor of so much of America over the years.

For her abiding concern for those who served and sacrificed for the cause of freedom; for her extraordinary efforts to ensure that the long forgotten Korean veterans will be remembered for all time; for her unparalleled success in promoting the Memorial and marshalling her devoted readership to its support.

\(\text{Few of numbers, strong of spirit}\)

For the single-minded concentration of rank and file on achieving recognition of a victory heretofore ignored by history and con-lesing those who made it so; and for its many initiatives in furtherance of our noble project, notably including Kathleen Wyosnick’s heartwarming letter.

\(\text{Native of North Korea, soldier for the South, American cardiologist with a very big heart}\)

For his remarkable creativity and “can do” spirit; and for his unflagging dedication of self and resources to further our common goal of memorializing those who secured freedom for a nation and its people.

\(\text{Korean vet, patriot, publicist}\)

For his long standing and articulate advocacy of a national memorial; for his outstanding effectiveness in placing our public service announcements in national papers and magazines; and for a host of related activities to enhance public awareness via the mass media.

\(\text{... and to those many thousands, the length and breadth of grassroots America, whose support and encouragement will one day make the Memorial a reality.}\)
The American Battle Monuments Commission is an independent agency of the Executive Branch of the Federal government. It was created by an act of Congress in March, 1923 to erect and maintain memorials in the United States and foreign countries where U.S. Armed Forces have served since April 6, 1917. Thus it is charged with establishment of the Korean War Veterans Memorial. The twelve commission members are appointed by the President of the United States.

Tonight's presentation "The Hills of Valor" will be a tribute to the courage and sacrifices of over one million Americans and their United Nations comrades-in-arms.

The production is presented by the Military District of Washington and will be performed by elements of the United States Army Chorus, The 3rd United States Infantry (The Old Guard) and members of honor guard units from the United States Marine Corps, Navy, Air Force and Coast Guard.

The United States Army Band was organized in 1922 by General of the Armies, General John J. Pershing. The band's duties are extensive. It is the official band for most diplomatic and state functions in the Nation's Capitol and performs musical honors for the arrival in Washington of foreign heads of state, diplomats and ranking military officials.

The 3rd United States Infantry (The Old Guard), on active duty since 1784, is The United States Army's elite ceremonial unit. The marching platoons, color guards, firing parties, honor guards and casket teams add distinction and pride to The Presidential Ceremonies, Guarding the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and funerals conducted for our fallen comrades who are laid to rest at Arlington National Cemetery.

GOD BLESS AMERICA

Land that I love.

Stand beside her and guide her
THROUGH THE NIGHT WITH A LIGHT FROM ABOVE.

From the mountains to the prairies
TO THE OCEANS WHITE WITH FOAM,
GOD BLESS AMERICA, MY HOME SWEET HOME.

GOD BLESS AMERICA, MY HOME SWEET HOME.
